

Scenario Planning

- Involves both rational analysis and creative thinking
- Allows for a dialogue around worldviews by acknowledgement of systemic drivers and enhance the sharing of visions.

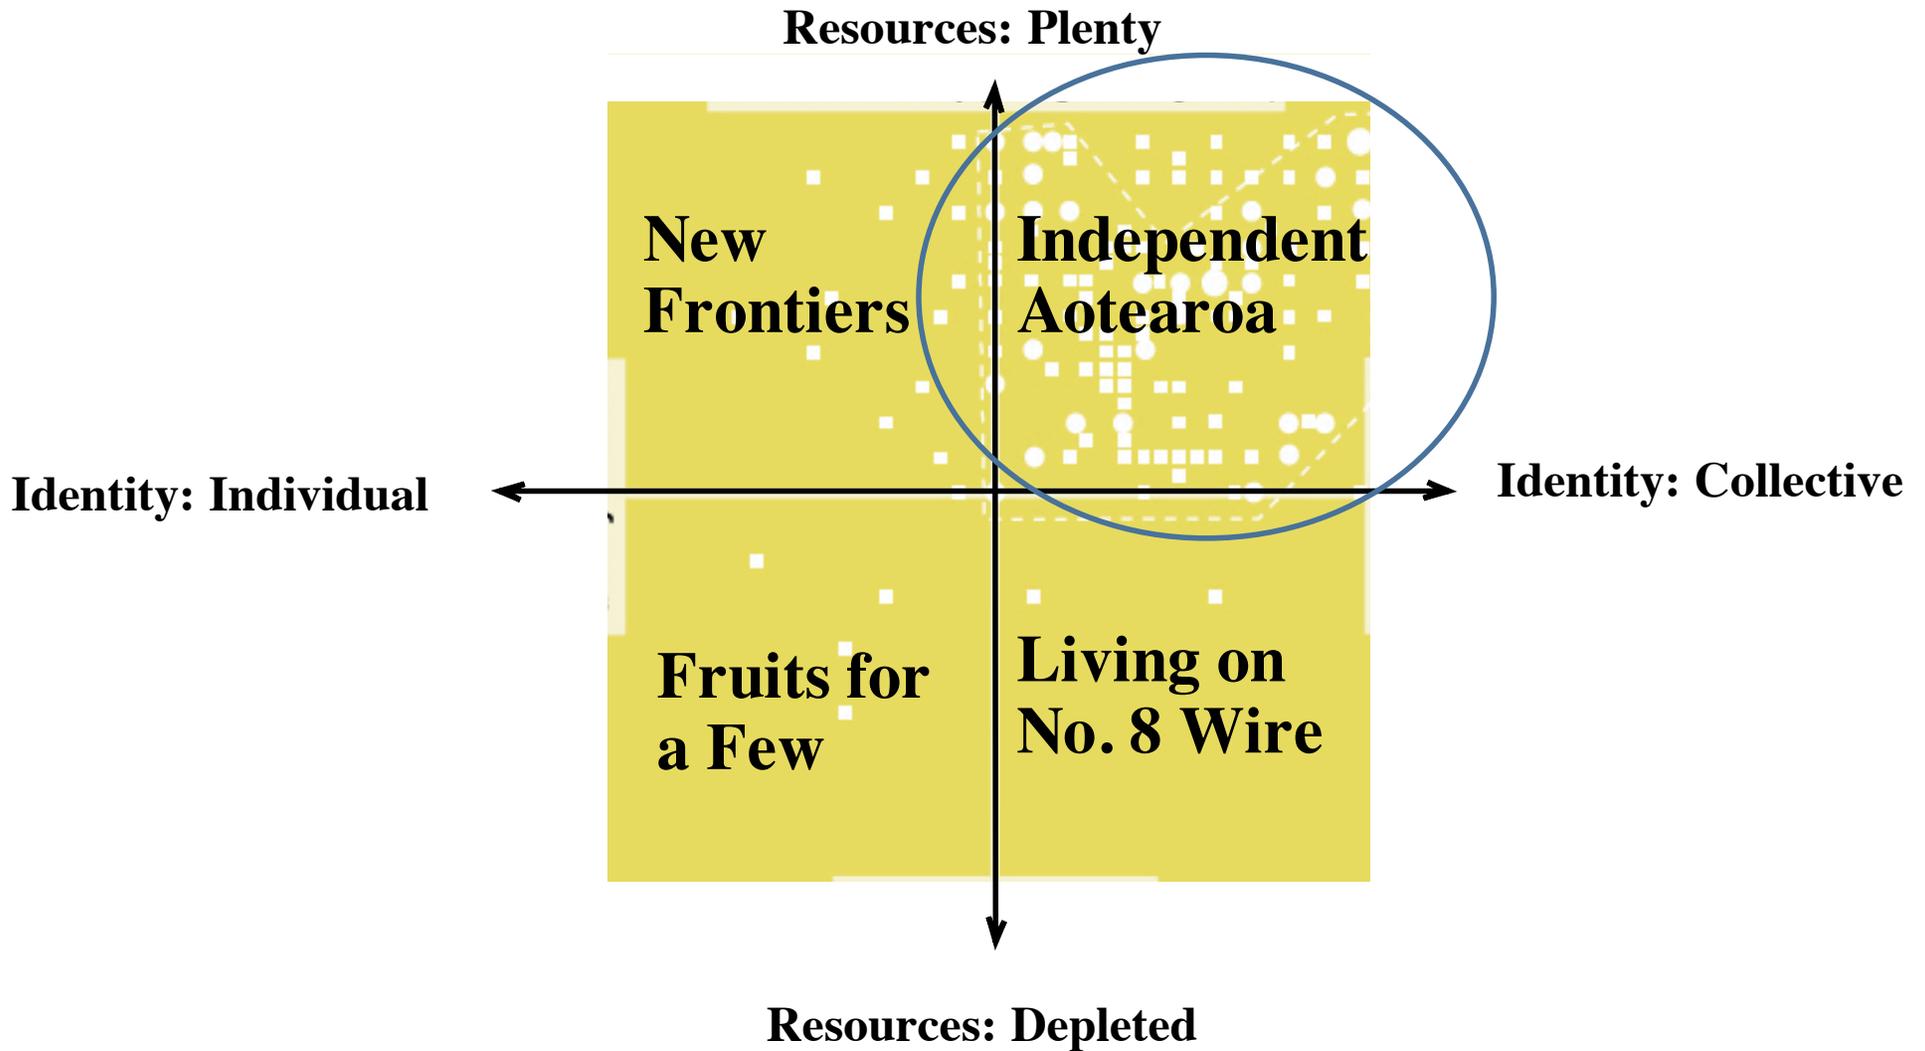

Game Participants'

Perceptions of where NZ is in 2006-7

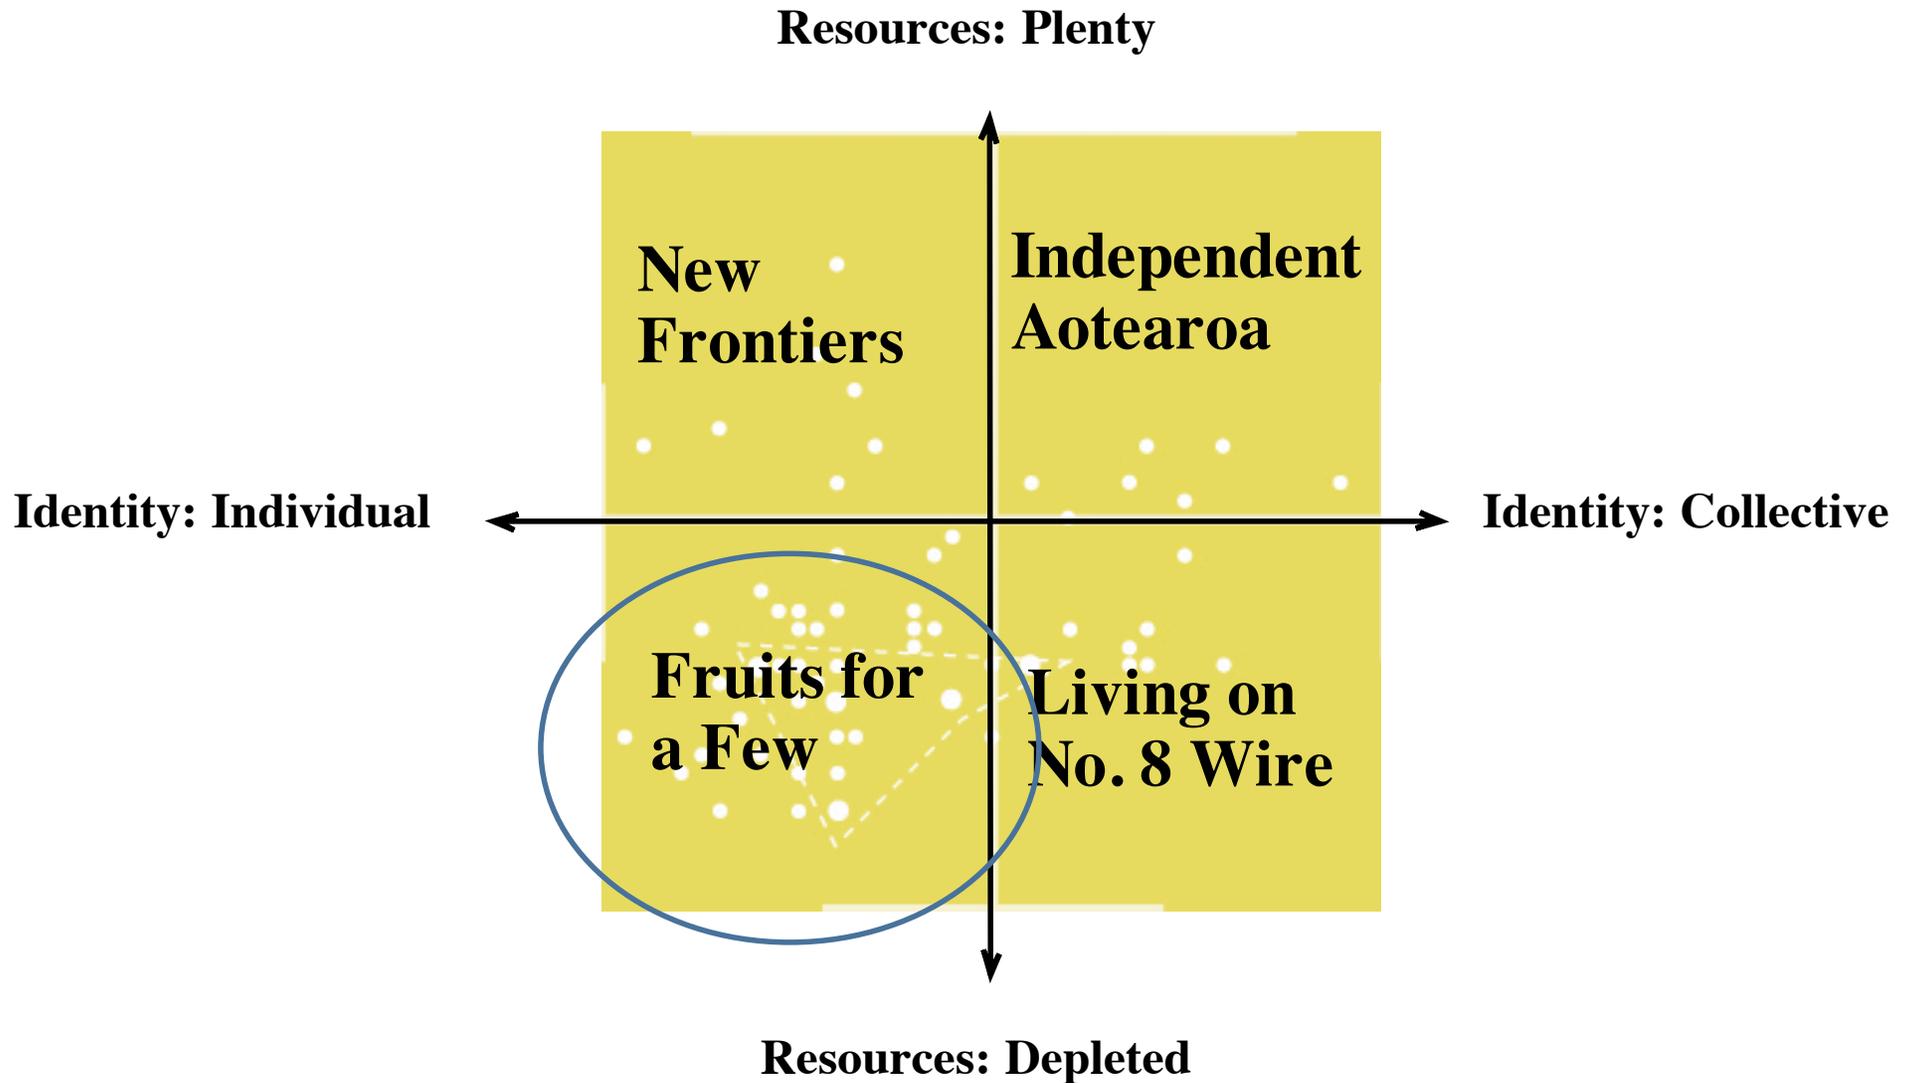

Adapted from: Work in progress: four future scenarios for New Zealand. Developed by the Landcare Research Scenarios Working Group; documented with additional commentary by Rhys Taylor, Bob Frame, Kate Delaney and Melissa Brignall-Theyer. 2nd ed. – Lincoln, N.Z.: Published by Manaaki Whenua Press, 2007.

Games Participants' Desired Location for NZ in 2055

Work in progress: four future scenarios for New Zealand. Developed by the Landcare Research Scenarios Working Group; documented with additional commentary by Rhys Taylor, Bob Frame, Kate Delaney and Melissa Brignall-Theyer. 2nd ed. – Lincoln, N.Z.: Published by Manaaki Whenua Press, 2007.

Current Trend Direction from 2006 (starting near the centre)

Work in progress: four future scenarios for New Zealand. Developed by the Landcare Research Scenarios Working Group; documented with additional commentary by Rhys Taylor, Bob Frame, Kate Delaney and Melissa Brignall-Theyer. 2nd ed. – Lincoln, N.Z.: Published by Manaaki Whenua Press, 2007.

Do 'the few' see it coming?

